

Two for CIF panel

KWINANA residents Barry Nelson and Bob Cooper were elected as community representatives for the Communities and Industries Forum at the AGM on Tuesday.

Mr Nelson said he was a long-time industry worker with an interest in occupational and environmental issues.

Mr Cooper said he was interested in strengthening the link between community and industry, saying he was capable of looking at both sides of the argument.

“We need each other as much as we hate each other,” he said.

The two were elected unopposed after Don Allanach withdrew his nomination because he said he lived too close to one of the other nominees and he thought it better that the representatives were spread out across the Kwinana area.
