

Coastline in the frame

ASPIRING photographers can hit the beach this summer and snap their best photo of Rockingham or Kwinana coastline for the 'Coastcare in the KIA' Coastal Photo Competition.

Coastcare officer Craig Wilson said it was a chance to capture the experiences of many visitors and locals heading to the beach over summer.

"The judges will be looking for photos of plants, animals and scenery that people most enjoy and will be collating the best entries for display," he said.

There are three categories for amateur photographers including student, open and mobile phone.

All images entered must be of the coastal strip from Port Kennedy to Henderson.

Email entries of no more than 3MB to craig.wilson@kwinana.wa.gov.au by Monday, March 2.

Cameron Smith and Jessie O'Dwyer with Kwinana Mayor Carol Adams.
Picture: Neil Mulligan www.communitypix.com.au d299808